

9. The materials that form a beach range in size from fine grains of _____ less than _____ mm in diameter.
10. Beaches also consist of other minerals of various colors, or fragments of _____ and coral.
11. Due to the continuous action of waves, beaches are in a constant state of _____.
12. _____ are walls that extend from the land into the ocean. They prevent sand from blocking a harbour.
13. Seawalls and _____ are also built to help control changes in the coastline.

Word Bank

breakwaters

seashells

energy

1m

change

type

vertical

dissolve

2mm

jetties

shape

soft

caves

gentler

sand.